

Elder of the Arcane doesn't require too much information to be saved to be able to run seamlessly, therefore, we choose to use a flat-file since a minimal amount of data needed to be stored and it was optimal for saving time and file size. Incorporating a database into the project would have been needlessly complicated for the amount of data we needed to store between levels and sessions.